The latest remedy for hay fever is to visit Egypt. They never sneeze on the Nile.

Judge Handy continues to speak for himself, and every time he does it, he contributes to a republican victory.

The report comes that gold has been discovered in Alaska. That is about as practical and interesting as the discovery of excellent grazing land in the moon.

It is quite noticeable that the Democratic papers keep quite silent about General Hancock running in 1884. He hasn't got the bar! Tilden has, and therefore is not acceptable to the Democratic leaders.

When a democratic paper in Ohio takes upon itself to say that Judge Foraker has made twenty-three speeches this campaign and no blunders, it is very evident that the democratic cause is becoming hopeless.

One of the campaign lies thus early sent on its round is that the president bought the trout it is alleged he caught, and paid fifteen cents a piece for them. This charge having been started so early, may spend all its force before '84.

The republicans of New York state are more harmonious at this time than they have been for eight years. With this harmony and with Arthur the state can be carried and the national election secured by the republicans.

That much-bereaved widow, Mrs. Lord Cavandish, is engaged to be married again. One year ago last May, her husband was assassinated, and although the shock is said to have nearly ended her life, she has so far recovered as to fall in love and promise to marry the new object of her affection.

An imperfect report of a tornado at Rochester, Minnesota, last night, comes over the Northwestern wires from Baraboo. The report says the city is badly demoralized, and that at least six hundred dead bodies had been recovered. The iron bridge 2,200 feet long, across the Zumbro river, was blown down.

Intellectual Boston, with all its blessed memories—its famous churches, great schools, celebrated preachers, poets, novelists, and jurists, and right under the shadow of Harvard—is patronizing John Sullivan, the slagger, in a manner that bids fair to beat the best record of Chicago. His saloon has cost him $20,000, and it only required a few days for him to take in $7,000.

The postal revenues are falling off as the time for the reduction of letter postage approaches. No provision has yet been made for the redemption of three-cent stamps and envelopes that will be in the hands of the postmasters on the 1st of October, when two-cent letter postage takes effect. It is said however that the three-cent stamps and envelopes can be used for double postage by adding a one-cent stamp and that there will be no necessity for their redemption, which would entail a great amount of labor and expense upon the department.

In regard to the amount of gold in the country the New York Herald says that from 1879 to 1882, the imports of gold exceeded the exports by $155,200,000, and the domestic production during the same period was estimated to be $145,000,000. The treasury and bank returns show that from January, 1879, to November, 1882, the stock of gold in the treasury increased by $35,700,000, in the national and state banks by $50,000,000—thus allowing for an increase of $200,500,000 in the amount circulating among the people. This result does not differ much from the estimate of the director of the mint ($178,000,000). In November, 1882, there was figured to be $306,000,000 in circulation, against $360,000,000 in the treasury and banks. This allows about $11 in gold for each head of population.

The State Journal says "the commissioners for the construction of the capitol extension met in the executive office Tuesday morning and rejected the bids for putting appropriate domes upon the four turrets of the capitol, which were opened one week ago. These bids were two, as follows: D. Stephens, Madison, $7,800; Bentley & Nowlan, Milwaukee, $7,719. The legislature at its last session made an appropriation of $6,000 for the work, and at the same time adopted plans and specifications for the domes, which the commissioners are authorized to change, hence the necessity upon their part of rejecting the bids, the lowest of which was $17,119 in excess of the appropriation. As the matter now stands, the turrets will not be completed until an additional appropriation is made by the legislature two years hence, or the plans undergo modification by the same body to such an extent that the work can be performed under the present appropriation."

The Luter Ocean says: "There have been several Chinamen allowed to declare their intention of becoming naturalized under the laws of the United States, as they are interpreted in Pennsylvania, though the claim is elsewhere made that any such proceeding would be manifestly unconstitutional. After two or three amendments the naturalization laws were by congress fashioned to favor any foreigners 'being free white persons and aliens of African nativity.' The special intent being to discriminate against the Chinese. The courts of Pennsylvania hold that this does not debar the Chinaman, notwithstanding he is neither white nor of African nativity. Last year two Philadelphia Chinamen were given their naturalization papers and with these precedents there is nothing to prevent every Chinaman in the Quaker City becoming a lawfully constituted citizen."

W. J. Davis, who has been managing several creameries in the southern part of this country, has failed to the amount, reports say, of $30,000. The Beloit Free Press says: "The Deloit creamery, located at Porter's station, is the most extensive of all owned by Davis, and the indebtedness to farmers and employees of this factory will be nearly $20,000. It has been the custom of Davis to settle on the 15th of each month, the settlements dating to the first of the month, and on pay day for this month there was $15,000 due mostly to farmers for cream, in amounts from $25 to $100. As yet Davis has not put in an appearance at the Beloit creamery and the prospects are that he will not, and attachments are out on what stuff can be found, but it is claimed that everything pertaining to the creamery is mortgaged."

MISS CHURCHILL MISSING

Another Beautiful St. Louis Girl Disappears Mysteriously.

Supposed to Have Been Abducted—A Rumored Love Affair—What the Neighbors Say They Saw.

St. Louis, Aug. 22.—Another case of mysterious disappearance of a young lady, a member of a wealthy family of social distinction, has just come to light here. The absentee is Mary Churchill, daughter of Col. James O. Churchill, vice president of the American Coal Company, from whose residence, No. 8377 Market street, the young lady (who is only 16 years old) disappeared between 5 and 7 o'clock last Sunday afternoon. The last person to see her, according to the parents, who discredited other statements, was a drug clerk, who about 6 o'clock noticed her standing at the gate of her father's residence. At 8 o'clock, when her parents returned, she was missing, and they kept her disappearance quiet till evening, when Col. Churchill waited upon the chief of police and laid the facts before him. Opinion is very much divided as to the cause of her absence. The parents are positive that the worst has befallen her, they claiming that there is not the slightest reason why she should leave her home of her own accord. She was happy and contented. Every wish was gratified, she was always lively and cheerful, and seemed to have no serious trouble which might be construed into a motive for her rash act. Miss Churchill was almost 17 years of age, about medium in height, and well developed for her years. Until the recent vacation came on she had attended the Stoddard school. At school she was a general favorite, and had a host of friends, both male and female, for her gentle and amiable manner. Friends describe her as remarkably handsome, well educated, and very mature for her age. Music was her hobby. She had a passion for it, and, although young, is said to have been an expert performer on several instruments. The friends who knew her best claim that an elopement is highly improbable, as she never had any beaux, and did not care for the society of young men. All her attention seemed to be absorbed by her family and her music. Then, too, none of her clothes were missing, and it was hardly likely that a young lady, member of a fashionable family would go off and get married without even a hand upon her head. So say her intimate friends. But on the other hand some people who live in the alley back of the Churchill residence state that she was frequently attended by a young gentleman, one of whom was very devoted, and frequently escorted her home, always taking the precaution, however, of making his adieu at some distance from her home, where they parted. Some of these witnesses claim that Sunday afternoon they saw her walking in the alley without a hat on, and exhibiting such an excited demeanor that they remarked that something was the matter with her. Some suspicious nature of her dealings with her admirers is possibly explained by the fact that her parents had for this southern latitude a rather peculiar theory as to the matrimonial question, to the effect that no proper lady ought or would by them be permitted to marry until she was at least 21 years of age. Miss Churchill is described by her acquaintances as a girl very much of a serious, fascinating, and manner, and in every way, physically and mentally capable of arousing the tender feeling, while her known loving and sympathetic nature was not likely to permit her to inflict wounds which a stern parental edict forbade her to alleviate until five cruel years had passed away. Hence there are many who believe that the statement made by one or two, that they saw her in company with a young gentleman at the corner of Garrison and Lucas avenues is true, and that that moonlight walk was the prelude of an elopement seized upon by the lovers as the only means available for escaping from the five years of loving and longing which Miss Churchill's parents had decided was the proper career for all well-regulated young persons. The chief of police is of this opinion, and all the facts go to suggest that the theories of forced abduction, and other desperate actions which some friends of the Churchill family are building up will be discovered in a few days by the reappearance of the young lady trembling with fear outwardly at meeting her angered parents, but inwardly happy in her victory over the avowed matrimonial theories of her parents, upon whom by that time she will have stolen a few years' march with the assistance of some southern Illinois parson or squire.

FRANK JAMES IN COURT.

The Work of Securing a Jury Commenced.

GALLATIN, Mo., Aug. 22.—It is evident now that the trial of Frank James is to be a memorable one in the legal annals of the state. There are two powerful forces arrayed against each other, and under the surface it is quite evident to many that the governor of the state and the administration do not desire the conviction of the great criminal. It is also evident that the officers of the counties where the exploits of the James gang were most daring are determined, if possible, to reap as big a crop of glory as possible by prosecuting him, and they will bend every energy to convict. One peculiar feature is that Colonel Phillips, one of the attorneys for the defense, is a commissioner of the state supreme court. Court was convened at 10 o'clock, and the work of securing a jury commenced. It is thought that this can be done in three days. Very little progress was made. Forty names were impaneled.

INDIANA POLITICS.

Holman Proposed for Governor—His Fight Against Railroad Grants.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Representative Stockslager has been interviewed on Indiana politics, which are pretty quiet at present. In regard to next year's gubernatorial nomination he said: "Ex-Gov. Gray is being talked of more prominently than any other so far. He is the only man who seems to be making a fight for the nomination. He would be a strong candidate if nominated, but I think Representative Holman could be easily nominated if he would announce his willingness to be a candidate. He is very strong over the whole state, and especially in the southern part. A good many Democrats are speaking of him, and I believe he could get the nomination and be elected comparatively easy. But I don't know that Judge Holman could be induced to accept. He is one of the best members of the house of representatives." Mr. Stockslager thought Mr. Dana's talk about Holman and the presidency was in good faith, and not merely intended to obstruct the way of Mr. Dana. He said: "I know that Dana is an ardent admirer of Judge Holman, that they are passionately very warm friends; that Dana believes in the Holman manner of legislation; that he believes Holman one of the most learned members in the house, and that he could very consistently say all he has said. Judge Holman is determined to make a hard fight to recover to the public domain the lands claimed by the Northern Pacific, but an attempt—probably, with success—will be made to dislodge the title and declare the lands forfeited, and a big fight will no doubt be inaugurated."

As to the Republican party, Assistant Secretary Now says that the leading candidates for the gubernatorial nominations are Postmaster General Gresham and Congressman Callkins. Judge Gresham, who is a Democrat by way of general opinion, but a Republican in his political views, is expected to be nominated for the senate. Mr. Callkins would cheerfully resign the governorship for a seat in the senate; but he is not figuring particularly on that. He would like to be governor of Indiana for four years respectively of other things.

CAREY'S REMOVAL.

Authentic Account of the Killing of the Informer.

LOUISIANA, Aug. 22.—Advice just received from South Africa give the particulars of the killing of informant Carey. O'Donnell, it appears, became aware of Carey's presence through a paragraph which was published in the Cape Town papers. He immediately commenced drinking, and while in a saloon in that city was heard to denounce Carey and declare that he would swing for him if he got the chance. Having made this threat, and intent on killing Carey, he took passage by the steamer Melrose Castle for Port Elizabeth. The shooting was done in the rear cabin. O'Donnell waiting for such an opportunity as would present no possibility of interference or failure. The first two shots were fired in rapid succession, both penetrating Carey's back; he staggered forward, and fell. The third and last shot struck him in the throat when he fell. The blood from the wound in his throat spurted in a powerful stream and covered the walls and furniture in the most horrible manner. Mrs. Carey, with a scream, jumped at O'Donnell and clasped his arm in an attempt to prevent him from firing again. O'Donnell pushed her gently away, and said: "Shake hands, Mrs. Carey, I didn't do it." He then quickly sat down and remained perfectly still until the officers of the vessel lifted him from the floor and placed on the cabin table, where in a few minutes he died without uttering a word.

A telegram from Cape Town says O'Donnell will be tried in England, and will be sent home immediately.

WOULD HAVE PEACE.

A United States Marshal Undertakes to Quiet the Cowboys.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—The widely-known cattle town of Humeville, in southern Kansas, on the line of the Kansas City, Lawrence & Southern Kansas railroad, is in a turmoil of excitement over the antics of cowboys and the effort being made to suppress them by officers. The town, being situated near the Indian Territory line, is a safe retreat for all classes of men, and during the past few days a number of cowboys have attempted to run the town. Since Aug. 10, five city marshals have been successively appointed, and resigned, so strong has the cowboy element become. On Thursday last Deputy United States Marshal Forsythe and Rayner arrived from Fort Worth, Tex., and Forsythe was appointed city marshal. Two hours after his arrival he was announced that he proposed to have quietness. In less than an hour Forsythe and Rayner went upon the street and Dick Turner, one of the cowboys who had caused a great deal of trouble, met them, when shooting began. Turner is noted as a killer and a bad man, but the officers were too quick for him, and he was shot and mortally wounded. During the fusillade two horses were also killed, but the officers established a reputation as shooters and so are holding their own. On Sunday Sheriff Threlkoff, with an armed force, assisted by Forsythe and Rayner, arrested ten of the cowboy ringleaders of the trouble, all of whom were jailed and fined. The gang now vow they will burn the town, and trouble is liable to break out at any time.

JUDGE BLACK'S FUNERAL.

All Business Suspended at York—The Clergyman's Address.

YORK, Pa., Aug. 22.—The funeral of Judge Black was by far the largest ever held in this city. All business was suspended. The streets were thronged with people as the cortege passed. Many distinguished people were present. The pallbearers were Gen. Hancock, Judge Gibson, Judge Wickes, George Small, Gen. S. A. Crawford, Chief Justice Moraw, A. B. Farguhar, George H. Spriggs, Judge Bear, and W. L. Small. Religious services were held at Brookie, and were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Power, of Washington. The remains were interred in Prospect Hill cemetery.

Mr. Power said: "We are assembled, dear friends, to pay the last duties to this mortal body. The great spirit, which hovered over and whose torch we have extinguished, has passed out of from the majestic form which bore it. The noble head where the grand intellect dwelt, the gentle heart which throbbled with the tenderest and most lofty sentiment are here, but the man who reigned within has vacated this earthly tabernacle, amid the flowers, and trees, and birds, the summer fields, and the stars, and the manifold voices of the world which he loved so well. He has been called hence. His eyes were upon his loved Brookie when radiant in its brightest beauty to open upon scenes richer than are ever suffered to mortal vision. The change is a sublime one, which great as well as simple souls may well grieve. If it be true that the highest minds live in thought with the great dead more than the living; may be permitted us to still live with him. For for him there are higher companions, grander associations than can be known on earth. This was a man of faith. He believed in God, in eternal life, in the love of the soul of infinite mercy for salvation. He recognized the truth, after all his honors, that the most illustrious object in the universe is a sinner saved by grace. He said he had no doubt of the truth of Christianity, but that his faith increased with added years. He was a praying man, and in the face of all things thought to do the right. Our brother's faith was simple, and his whole character was grandly simple. Thirty years ago he made public acknowledgment of his allegiance to Jesus Christ, and identified himself with the brotherhood known as the Disciples. While living remote from any congregation of the church of his choice, he was always associated with them in his religious beliefs and sympathies. When in Somers, Pa., he regularly attended the services of the Christian church. He broke bread reverently in commemoration of the death of our Lord, and one of his last good deeds was to contribute liberally toward a new house of worship being erected for the congregation. He thoroughly understood the scriptures, and his wise counsel was gladly given and always helpful in the examination of difficult scriptural themes. He loved to dwell upon the profound and beautiful truths of the redemption, and one of his most recent words was an able defense of Christianity against her enemies."

WASHED OUT.

How They Regulate the Social Evil at Delphos, Ohio.

DELPHOS, Aug. 22.—About 1 o'clock this a. m. a large body of masked men with steam fire-engine in tow, and each man carrying a ax, approached the house of infamous called Gold Dust, just south of the Narrow Gauge depot, run by George Harf, who has been conducting a terrible business, making it a place of refuge for the neighborhood, and a place of refuge for the neighborhood. The mob, stopped in front of the house, standing their engine on the canal bed opposite, and in loud voice through a trumpet warned the inmates, consisting of the proprietor, his wife and several girls, with their associates, to vacate the place. They were greeted with a chorus shout of "Go to hell." Immediately a cry of fire was given, and streams of water were quickly thrown against the doors and windows, breaking them in, and the men following, smashing their axes over everything before them, completely wrecking all the furniture, trunks and valises. Hurting threatened to shoot, but offered little resistance after the streams were being thrown. The loss to furniture and clothing is estimated at $1,500. Hurtling for Lima, where he is going to bring suit against the town, claiming it was a riot, and the town must protect him.

TELEGRAPH COMPETITION.

Two Companies Incorporated in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—A new telegraph company has filed articles of incorporation in Albany and this one plainly enough is made up of persons interested with George I. Sney in his various enterprises, and especially in the West Shore & Buffalo railroad. It is so palpably a strike on the Western Union that incorporation was greeted with shouts of laughter when the news went over the wires into Wall street offices.

AMERICAN SCIENTISTS.

Jordan, of Bloomington; Edgar Larkin, of New Windsor, Ill.; Prof. S. W. Robinson, of Urbana; Prof. C. Wheeler, of Chicago, were among others elected fellows. The next place of meeting will be Philadelphia, on September 3, and the committee was given authority to make the date earlier if deemed advisable for the better accommodation of the meeting with the British association. The officers were elected for the ensuing year.

We believe that there is a large class of patent medicines whose ingredients are skillfully and conscientiously selected and compounded, and that they have been very useful in the domestic treatment of disease. We must come to this conclusion in precisely the same way that we come to the conclusion that a man is a skillful physician by what he accomplishes, and by the testimony of those who have used them. The reputation of a patent medicine is sustained by exact the same evidence that supports a skillful physician's reputation. Many of these medicines came out of the war practice, and were prepared and originally prescribed by the best physicians. A very few of them, we believe, are trustworthy and reliable in the consideration of the intent of their makers. * * *

"The people who are necessarily the judges, both of doctors and of medicine, say that these medicines are not all frauds, and if human testimony is good for anything, that it is established."

A FACT—Facts are established by testimony. The weight of the testimony is dependent upon the character of the witness. The following unimpeachable testimony pronounced Dow's Liver Cure a medicine of merit.

We, the undersigned, have used Dow's Liver Cure cured in a short time, and we recommend it to all who are afflicted with liver trouble, and we pronounce it the most reliable and efficient medicine yet introduced in this country, and unhesitatingly recommend it to all sufferers.
